GENERAL EDUCATION PROGRAM

Introduction to the Program

The General Education (GED) program forms the very foundation of the liberal arts curriculum at the University. It serves two main purposes:

Provide students a number of basic subjects by way of building the intellectual foundations and skills absolutely necessary for both any tertiary level education, and especially for a liberal arts perspective.

Offer students' exposure to courses not offered by their respective departments, but courses that are vital both to a deepening and broadening their liberal arts perspective.

The General Education (GED) Courses are offered both through the Program and also through existing departments. These courses are offered into three categories: General Education Foundation (GEF) Courses, ULAB Core Courses (UCC) and General Education Elective (GED) Courses. The latter also serve as "Optional" choices for advanced students.

All the courses listed under the above-mentioned categories are already built into every undergraduate degree program and clearly indicated on their respective syllabi. Students following any given degree program will be automatically directed towards the required GEF, UCC and GED elective/optional and Minor, that they must take or choose from.

The GEF and UCC courses remain fixed over extended periods of time, and are offered in a fairly fixed sequence, so students following their departmental syllabi can know which GED courses to take when without reference to any other directions.

The GED elective, and/or optional courses may vary quite a bit from term to term, and students are advised to consult the listings for each term to know what they must take or may choose from.

BACHELOR OF ARTS IN ENGLISH AND HUMANITIES

Introduction to the Program

The BA in English and Humanities program is designed to give students a solid foundation for building critical and cultural awareness as well as to open unfamiliar worlds and exciting new ways of thinking about humanities. As an English Major, students will also learn communication and language skills that are applicable across disciplines. The focus areas involve critical reading, critical writing and critical thinking. The department tries to develop in students not only basic communication skills, but also other key areas necessary both for intellectual and professional advancement: humanistic content, analysis, argumentation, rhetoric and stylistics. These broad offerings to all students make the department one of the major nodal points in the University's Liberal Arts curriculum.

The Department's courses are not confined to traditional disciplinary boundaries, but are open to inter- and cross- disciplinary offerings. This dynamic approach allows students to develop skills and sensibilities vitally required by modern English language and literature teachers and by people across professional fields: communications and media, business and marketing, and so on.

The syllabus is designed with utmost care and aims at simultaneously improving the language skills of the students and deepening their knowledge of literature. The courses have been selected by comparing them with similar programs offered by outstanding universities at home and abroad, and are routinely updated. The aim in doing so has always been to bring it more into line with international developments in the field. While the literature courses are mainly following an established English canon, the language and linguistics courses have been refurbished with the latest ideas, theories and practices in the field. The literature courses, however, in their turn, are given a focus that interfaces Anglo-American culture with our own. The principle behind it is to make students see the integrative as well as the disintegrative aspects of different cultures, and to find out a way to a holistic understanding of literature and language in relation to our own society.

The highlights of the program include:

- Flexibility
- Wider choices
- Holistic learning
- Marketability

Why Study at DEH

Students of the Department of English and Humanities revel in reading and writing about language, literature and Culture. They learn to participate in life with a deeper understanding of how language operates in various formats. The interdisciplinary nature of the program allows DEH students to pair English courses with those from Sustainable Development, Media and Journalism, Business, Computer Science or General Education with focus on psychology, international relations and so on.

DEH is more than a knowledge base. It prepares you for life after your graduation; you acquire a set of applicable skills while attending various extra-curricular activities and study modules.

Vision

- Offer courses that survey different literary periods and genres through theoretical, philosophical, cultural, and pedagogical lenses to understand language, linguistic, and literary texts. The courses also focus on developing theoretical, philosophical, and intellectual abilities. There is an overall emphasis on pursuing new avenues of research.

Objectives of the Program

- To impart language skills and develop literary sensibilities so that graduates become intellectually competent and responsible citizens of the world
- To help students acquire the required professional skills and mindset that will be valuable for a wide range of careers in such fields as teaching, publishing, media, entrepreneurship, civil service, government and private sectors, as well as for higher studies.

Advising

DEH students are assigned to a DEH faculty advisor who help them to identify their educational needs, plan for courses, discuss career options, and also resolve problems that might affect their academic performance.

The Writing Center

Named as the English Zone, the writing center is an academic English learning center for all ULAB students. Students can get writing help, editing service, workshops on grammar, presentations and research as well as opportunities to practice speaking in English through conversation hours.

Teaching Assistants and Peer Mentors

DEH hires advanced students as Teaching Assistants and trains them in leadership skills, written, and oral communications. They are also assigned to help the weaker students. SAO also recruits advanced students of DEH to become peer mentors and help other students in their academic life

Career Counseling

DEH regularly arranges workshops on soft skills, editing, translation, and other topics. It also posts recruitment notices as well as whenever there are opportunities to do internship and trainings.

Student Magazine

Mouthpiece of ULAB Students of English (MUSE) is the creative space run by the students of DEH. The magazine, available both online and in print version, publishes department news, features, columns, literary pieces, book/movie reviews, experimental artworks, and photographs. It gives students hands-on training in editing and publication skills too.

Literary Club

Paper Canoe is a literary club under the Department of English and Humanities which aims at ensuring students' participation in activities such as debates, declamations, group discussions, poetry writing and recitation, short story writing, quiz contests, interactive lecture/review sessions, etc. Through these activities, the club reaches out to language and literature lovers and tries to create a space for them.

Student Research

Students demonstrate interdisciplinary research skills in studying language and literature in different contexts in student dissertations that reflect general understanding of various critical and theoretical frameworks of English Studies.

The department's annual Inter-university Student Conference and Cultural Competition gives students an opportunity to do research and compete with participants from major public and private universities of the country. The cultural competition allows them to explore and experiment on topics both national and international relevance using multiple artistic modes of expression.

Curriculum Integration Program

The experimental and multidisciplinary Curriculum Integration program held every term on a specific theme allows students to demonstrate their skills in application of critical theories to understand and interpret their immediate social world thereby making them more informed citizens.

Scholars Program

The Scholars Program is designed to provide a platform for those high-achieving students who strive for academic excellence and are ready to explore extensive educational opportunities not covered by the standard curriculum.

BACHELOR OF SOCIAL SCIENCE IN MEDIA STUDIES & JOURNALISM

Introduction to the Program

ULAB's FLAGSHIP department is the Media Studies and Journalism department, which has grown to become the largest and most prominent media, communication and journalism school in the country. As of December 2020, it has around 900 undergraduate and graduate students and 31 faculty, instructors and teaching assistants. Established in 2004, it was first headed by Dhaka University Professor Sakhawat Ali Khan. In 2006, Prof. Brian Shoesmith (from Edith Cowan University, Australia) became the department head. He was succeeded in 2009 by Prof. Jude William Genilo (from the Philippines).

The undergraduate curriculum has study concentrations in Digital Journalism, Digital Film and Television Production, Public Relations and Communication for Development. Its Masters in Communication program focuses on communication research and policy, corporation communication and development management.

ULAB ranked In 2020, ULAB ranked 46th among the top 50 universities under the Industrial Applications category in the World's Universities with Real Impact (WURI) Ranking. The thesis program of the Masters in Communication program was ULAB's entry in the said ranking. Media Studies and Journalism received in 2021 program accreditation by Global Alliance for Public Relations and Communication Management (GA), Switzerland. In 2022 ULAB ranked under top 96 in WURI ranking with the features of Digital Journalism, Curriculum Integration Program, ULAB TV and Dhaka Internationational Mobile Film Festival. In 2023 ULAB ranked 75 in global top 100 innovative universities in WURI with the same features.

The department is affiliated with the following: Asian Media Information and Communication Centre (AMIC), International Communication Association (ICA), Global Alliance on Public Relations and Communication Management (GA), Communication Initiative Network, and International Association of Media and Communication Research (IAMCR). Prof. Sumon Rahman headed the department from 2025.

Given the university's research thrust, the department has pursued publications. It has produced the most comprehensive anthology on Bangladesh's Changing Mediascape: From State Control to Market Forces (Editors: Brian Shoesmith and Jude William Genilo; Intellect UK Publisher), which is the basic text for anyone in the country taking a media and journalism degree. It contributed towards the understanding of the 1971 Liberation War through two photography books - Price of Freedom (Raghu Rai) and Revisiting Anwar Hossain's '71 (Editors: Jude William Genilo and Md. Abdul Kader). The department's research agenda includes C4D, Development Communication, Mass Communication, Journalism Studies and Public Relations.

Aside from its research work, the department has very strong co-curricular programs. In order to give students a taste of the real world and help them gain some work experience before they jump into the media industry, several apprenticeship programs are offered - Radio Campbuzz, ULAB TV, Cinemascope (film), PR4U (Public Relations), ULABian Student Newspaper, ULAB Animation Studio and Shutterbugs (photography). It regularly organizes and hosts public events such as Meet the Editor, Reporter's Diary, Meet the Director and Meet the Artist. Under its Curriculum Integration Program, it holds a film and visual exhibition of student works three times a year at the prestigious Shilpakala Academy (National Gallery).

To improve the employability prospects of its students, the department requires a portfolio before graduation. The portfolio consists of 16 media projects from their foundation and specialized courses. The department has a few outreach projects - Dhaka International Mobile Film Festival and Axis MIL (Media and Information Literacy).

Minor Courses

For MSJ Students

MSJ students have to take five courses offered by other departments. They can do a minor in any other undergraduate program, such as Business Administration (BBA), English and Humanities (DEH), Computer Science and Engineering (CSE) and Sustainable Development Studies (SDS). They can choose any five courses, subject to availability and fulfillment of pre-requisite, from the department mentioned above. Students who wish to do a minor should visit the relevant departmental section in this handbook for the list of courses to be taken.

Minor in MSJ (For students of other departments)

Students from other departments wishing to do a minor in Media Studies and Journalism will be required to complete five courses. Every term Media Studies and Journalism Department offers courses as minor for other Department students. Students will have to take five courses from the offerings:

Course Code	Course Title	Credits
MSJ 2101	Communication and Technology	3
MSJ 2251	Journalism and Society	3
MSJ 2252	Digital Audience	3
MSJ 2231	Visual Communication	3

Internship/Project

MSJ 4298 Internship (5 Credits / 1 Course)

All students studying at the MSJ Department will undertake an internship in an area of media or communication that interests them. By their final semester of study, students are required to seek out a suitable organization for an internship to appreciate and experience the dynamics of working in a real organization. These may be unpaid or occasionally paid, depending on the employer. The duration of the internship is usually from 8 to 12 weeks. Students are expected to work during the employer's requested hours. This is to be negotiated between the host institution and the students.Projects

Filmmaking Project

Instead of an internship, students may opt for a film-making project. A maximum of four students can work on the same project fulfilling one major role – Script, Cinematography, Editing, or Direction. Students have to make a 15 to 25 minute video of a fictional story or a documentary. Each student is expected to prepare their production book detailing their project and any lessons learned from it. This production book along with the film will be presented before a panel of ULAB examiners and will be graded.

Study Tour and Project Internship

ULAB MSJ organizes a two-week (or more) media and communications course with a foreign institution in Bangkok, Thailand, Delhi, India, and Moscow, Russian Federation. The program is then integrated with the internship program. It is divided into two phases as follows:

- The first phase of the internship will take place abroad and will last at least two weeks. Students will need to go through a series of Academic, Experiential, and Cultural Programs.
- The second phase of the internship will begin once the students return to the University of Liberal Arts Bangladesh. Most of the activities in the second phase will be directly related to the two-week course work abroad. Finally, the students will have to produce an Internship Report and present their work during the Internship Presentation at the end of the term.

Research Project

The Research Project Internship takes advantage of the Masters in Communication (MComn). MSJ students need to make a decision on undertaking research in lieu of a workplace internship at the end of their 11th semester. The student is required to produce the first two chapters (Introduction and Study Framework) of a research project. This will be presented and defended before a panel.

Portfolio

MSJ 4299 Portfolio (5 Credits / 1 Course)

All students studying at the MSJ Department must create a portfolio over the course of their study. By their final semester of study, students are required to have a file that will showcase the key projects of certain courses that they had taken during their undergraduate study.

A student portfolio is a compilation of academic work and other forms of educational evidence assembled for the purpose of (1) evaluating coursework quality, learning progress, and academic achievement; (2) determining whether students have met learning standards or other academic requirements for courses and graduation; (3) helping students reflect on their academic goals and progress as learners; and (4) creating a lasting archive of academic work products, accomplishments, and other documentation.

Apprenticeship Programs

The MSJ Department offers apprenticeship programs. By definition, an apprentice is a person who learns the skills of a specific craft or trade by receiving hands-on training from someone who is already an expert. By working with an expert in the field, the apprentice will learn the necessary techniques and theoretical knowledge to work independently in the future. The apprenticeship program covers the fields of film, photography, journalism (print, electronic and online), public relations and animation. The objectives of the program are to boost the MSJ Department's peer teaching methodology; to create core student groups that can assist the MSJ Department in its conduct of internal and external activities; to facilitate student communication within the MSJ Department and with other departments in the University through various media tools; and to develop advanced skills of students passionate in particular media forms and channels. The fields, expected outputs, and descriptions of the apprenticeship program are summarized as follows:

Outreach Programs

Dhaka International Mobile Film Festival

Dhaka International Mobile Film Festival (DIMFF) started in 2015 as Cinemascope Mobile Film Competition (CMFC). The festival upholds and promotes the motto 'New generation, New tools, New communication'. The festival is free of entry for students. Screening Category is open for all but the Competition category is restricted to university students at Undergraduate or Graduate level and One Minute Film category is limited to Grade 1-12 students. Films for this festival must be shot on a mobile phone (cellphone/smartphone). However, there is no restriction regarding the brand, model, and operating system of the phone or post-production tools. DIMFF's purpose is not only to inspire and spark creativity in people of all ages with limited income or resources but also to encourage filmmakers to harness their dreams and to recognize the immense possibilities to accomplish them.

FactWatch

FactWatch is an outreach program of the Department of Media Studies and Journalism for promoting Media Information Literacy (MIL) and raising awareness about misinformation, disinformation, fake news, and rumors in Bangladesh. FactWatch is managed by the Center for Critical and Qualitative Studies (CQS) under the editorial guidance of Dr. Sumon Rahman. It was established in 2017 with initial funding from the American Center that covered the costs for the first year. The project garnered global recognition in 2020 as it entered into a significant partnership with the International Fact-Checking Network (IFCN), becoming the first fact-checking organization in Bangladesh to do so. In the following year of 2021, FactWatch became the first organization in Bangladesh to enter into a partnership with Facebook as a Third-Party Fact-Checker.

Curriculum Integration Program

The Curriculum Integration Programme was established to facilitate faculty and students from various year levels and study concentrations to work together and learn from each other. It has two primary objectives. First, it utilizes active learning approaches to enhance the educational experience of students. Second, it encourages students to look inward — to reflect on their own personalities, aspirations and identities. The Department believes that students must be comfortable and confident with themselves before they can positively contribute to others. Every semester, the MSJ Department launches an exhibit to facilitate curriculum integration. Each exhibit is based on a philosophical/sociological concept and/or theory, which is used to guide and harmonize student outputs as well as ground them in communication-related perspectives. The exhibit brings together the works of students, which includes research paper presentations, communication campaign materials, visual art, digital art, photography and film exhibitions.

BACHELOR OF SCIENCE IN COMPUTER SCIENCE AND ENGINEERING

Introduction to the Program

The Department of Computer Science and Engineering aims to graduate highly competent students with the potential of becoming the leaders in their field and also to impart knowledge which allows them to understand the implications of their work on both to themselves as well to the society as a whole.

ULAB CSE, since its inception, has been offering an undergraduate program in Computer Science and Engineering with a focus on developing skills for ICT industries worldwide. The designed program provides students with the fundamental skills needed to become an accomplished IT specialist. The program also aims at a wider knowledge of the subject, rather than a mere understanding of the existing commercial approaches. The degree is designed for a wide range of students, including those who wish to pursue a career in software engineering, computer programming or related areas, and also those who wish to move on to study for higher degrees in the computing and information technology areas, either at home or abroad.

The department believes in a philosophy of Active Learning which is reflected in our curriculum and teaching styles. The Computer Science and Engineering (CSE) curriculum has been designed with both theoretical and industry-oriented courses. The department provides state of the art laboratory facilities, with guidance from the top-notch faculties, to bring out the best from the students. Departmental active collaboration with local and international reputed companies is keeping both CSE students and faculty updated with industry innovations and requirements. In their last academic year, students will be able to choose a concentration area or any other elective courses to focus their career according to their interest. Furthermore, the Liberal Arts curricular framework will help the students to acquire an openness of vision to become adaptable and ever-effective professionals of this century and for the time to come. The program objectives address our goal of graduating highly competent students with the potential of becoming leaders in their careers and add value to society.

Vision

To produce highly competent graduates who will become leaders in Computer Science and Engineering.

Mission

- To prepare our students to meet high standards of excellence for professional career advancement.
- To create and disseminate new knowledge through basic and applied research in the field of Computer Science and Engineering.
- To build strong relationships between industry and academia, eliminating the gap.

Objectives of the Program

The program objectives, as derived from the departmental mission statement, address our goal of graduating highly competent students with the potential of becoming leaders in the field of their careers and understanding the implications of their work on both to themselves and to society as a whole. The program objectives are:

Foundation: To provide graduates with a solid foundation in the principles and practices of computer science, including mathematics, physical sciences, and basic engineering. This foundation is necessary to succeed in more advanced Computer Science and Engineering coursework where students will apply these principles and practices to a variety of complex problems, and which will further develop their analytical and creative problem-solving skills and enable them to work successfully on multidisciplinary teams, in both classroom and laboratory settings.

Breadth: To provide graduates with sufficient breadth in computer science and related technical disciplines. This breadth is required not only to understand engineering trade-offs that cross disciplines (for example, hardware and software boundaries), but also to participate effectively in multidisciplinary teams. To also provide students with breadth in the liberal arts and social sciences to develop their awareness of societal issues; to develop effective oral and written communication skills; and to develop an understanding of professional and ethical issues related to computing.

Depth: To provide our graduates with advanced training in focused areas of their choice. This depth is necessary to solve complex real-world engineering problems and prepare them to contribute to a specific discipline within computer science and possibly pursue advanced study or research.

Capstone Project

The Department of CSE requires each graduating student of BSc in CSE program to complete a three-term long capstone project (4 credits). The term-wise credit distribution will be 1+1+2 = 4. To enroll in the Capstone Project, students must complete at least 105 credits including all the major core courses, math and science courses, Ethics, Language and Communication-related courses. Students must register for the Capstone Project in Term 9 and complete the project in Term 11. Students will have to submit a project report and present their project work before a panel of examiners by the end of Term 11.

Grading will be done based on the report, presentation, continuous assessment, and other assessment methods as decided by the department through 3 semesters. This project is intended to provide a culminating experience that allows a student to demonstrate proficiency in several of the learning outcomes that are stated by his or her degree program. In the Capstone Project, students will apply and cumulate the knowledge and skills that they gathered through theory and lab courses in their program. For this reason, each approved Capstone Project should include and properly address the following components:

- Problem Analysis
- Design and Development of Solutions
- Investigation
- Project Management

BACHELOR OF SCIENCE IN ELECTRICAL AND ELECTRONIC ENGINEERING

Introduction to the Program

The Department of Electrical and Electronic Engineering is focused on producing high-quality graduates with a broad spectrum of innovative and sustainable engineering knowledge and skills motivated by liberal arts aspects such that they become globally competent both in industry and academia. To achieve this goal, the undergraduate EEE program is designed to develop well-rounded professionals with excellent engineering and analytical skills as well as social and ethical values to access a diverse range of engineering professions at local and global arena.

By offering high-quality education through an updated curriculum, the undergraduate EEE program aims to provide the students with the core principles of Electrical and Electronic Engineering built on a solid foundation of mathematics and natural sciences, as well as help students to develop necessary skills on specific topics of interest on major areas including Power, Electronics, Communication and Computer.

The graduates develop proficiency not only to manage, implement, and deploy engineering technologies, but also to develop and invent new technologies to handle real-life challenges and to become enthusiastic for life-long learning. Besides classroom teaching, students are encouraged to gain hand-on experience by conducting experimental work in state-of-the-art laboratories, solving real-life problems in projects, participating in seminar and workshop, going on study tour and through industry attachments.

The engineering knowledge and skills are complemented with several courses from diverse areas like social sciences, psychology, arts, language, business, and sustainable development through the liberal arts curriculum. These allow our graduates to contribute to the engineering profession as well as to devote to the welfare of society by adopting an array of contemporary and innovative service activities through liberal arts perspective.

EEE Concentration Group – 4 theory and 2 lab courses (14 credits)

Students will choose a concentration group consisting of four elective courses. These groups are designed to provide undergraduate specialization in specific topics. The offered groups are:

I. Electronics Concentration
II. Communication and Signal Processing Concentration
III. Power Concentration
IV. Computer Concentration

EEE concentration group courses can be taken in one of two ways:

1. Students will have to take four elective courses from any one of the concentration groups. Among the four courses, at least two should have corresponding lab courses. If a student chooses elective courses such that more than two courses have corresponding lab courses, the total credits to be completed for the degree will increase accordingly.

2. If any student takes thesis or internship, it will be equivalent to a three (3) credit course without lab course from any concentration group. EEE 4497 – Thesis will be two-semesters long (1+2 credits).

Final Year Capstone Project

The Department of EEE requires that each graduating student of BSc in EEE program completes EEE 4196, a three-semester-long final year capstone project (4 credits). Students must register for the Capstone Project in Term 10 and complete the project in Term 12. The distribution of credits will be 1+1+2 = 4.

Students will have to submit a project report and present their project work before a panel of examiners by the end of Term 12. Grading will be done based on the report, presentation, and continuous assessment through 3 semesters. This project is intended to provide a culminating experience that allows students to demonstrate proficiency in several of the learning outcomes that are stated by their degree program.

In the Capstone Project, students will apply and cumulate the knowledge and skills that they gathered through theory and lab courses in his/her program. For this reason, each approved Capstone Project should include and properly address the following components:

Teamwork, Requirements Analysis, Design and Implementation, Ethics, Societal Impact, Communication, Lifelong, Learning, Modern Tools Usage and Contemporary Issues.
